

Job Profile: Investigator, Systemic Investigations

Classification:	Band 3 (under review)	Position:	00126847
Reports to:	Director, Systemic Investigations, Research and Policy	Location:	Vancouver, BC

CONTEXT

The Office of the Police Complaint Commissioner (OPCC) is a civilian, independent office of the Legislature which oversees and monitors complaints and investigations involving municipal police in British Columbia under the Police Act.

As result of recent amendments to the Police Act, the OPCC has the authority to examine and investigate systemic concerns about policing that align with our general oversight responsibilities. This includes the ability to proactively investigate systemic issues from police complaints or problems identified with the complaints process, provide meaningful recommendations aimed at preventing police misconduct and improving public confidence in policing, and to report on these publicly.

The OPCC's work in police accountability and oversight is inherently connected to Canada's legacy of colonialism and the historical traumas between police and Indigenous Peoples, communities and way of life. The OPCC's commitment to reconciliation is implemented in the context of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP), the Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action (TRC), the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls (MMIWG) and the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples Act (DRIPA). This includes understanding, acknowledging and addressing our role in historic and ongoing colonial practices, deepening our relationships with Indigenous communities and First Nations, and undertaking an anti-racist approach to all facets of our work.

JOB OVERVIEW

The Investigator role is a new position responsible for managing systemic investigations which fall under the OPCC's mandate pursuant to section 177.01 of the Police Act. Reporting to the Director, Systemic Investigations, Research, and Policy, the Investigator will be accountable for systemic investigations from inception to completion, including the development of terms of reference, investigation planning, interviewing police and civilian employees, police board members and public sector officials, gathering and analyzing information, and writing clear, comprehensive, and persuasive reports, and developing recommendations. The Investigator will ensure that investigations are conducted in accordance with the Police Act, established policies, and the principles of administrative fairness and natural justice. The Investigator will also be responsible for monitoring emerging issues that may be suited for a systemic investigation, working with policy and research staff on matters relevant to systemic investigations and the OPCC's mandate, and liaising with legal and communications staff.

This position will be required to build relationships, seek input, and engage with people with diverse backgrounds and experiences. The position must be able to communicate and work across disciplines using a trauma informed and culturally competent lens and ensure an anti-racist approach to our work in this area.

ACCOUNTABILITIES

- Work collaboratively with the Director, Systemic Investigations, Research and Policy (the Director), Deputy Commissioner and Commissioner, and General Counsel to conduct investigations of varying complexity into systemic issues within the OPCC's mandate.
- Prepare terms of reference, investigation plans, budgets and workplans.
- Develop and implement all aspects of assigned investigations including the identification of appropriate resources necessary to conduct systemic investigations and the communications and engagement strategies required for the investigation.
- Carry out investigative functions, including the interviewing of witnesses, and gathering of evidence and information using statutory powers pursuant to the Police Act.
- Prepare clear, concise and comprehensive investigative reports that include meaningful and actionable recommendations based on investigative findings for the Commissioner's consideration.
- Work with legal team and others to develop and implement policies, practices, procedures, and templates that will support OPCC systemic investigative functions under the Police Act.
- Provide expertise and advice to the Deputy Commissioner and Director on investigative best practices, approaches and strategies to support the OPCC's systemic investigative mandate, including incorporating Indigenous laws and practices into inquiry and investigations.
- Identify emerging areas for potential systemic investigation.
- Manage external researchers and subject matter experts relevant to systemic investigations.
- Ensure effective management of staff assigned to systemic investigations and overall staff performance through staff development plans and individual supervision.
- Responsible for program area planning, including identifying investigative program needs and recommending and implementing training, procedures, practices, standards and policies in alignment with relevant statute, principles of administrative fairness, and natural justice.
- Identify opportunities and build relationships with key external parties, including public bodies and private organizations, and provincial and federal counterparts.
- Develop and implement engagement strategies with external interest holders.
- Ensure the confidential storage of documents and investigative materials and appropriate use of the case management system.
- Assist the Director as required.

SELECTION CRITERIA

  - Experience conducting interviews and obtaining witness statements as part of investigative processes.
  - Writing reports detailing evidence-based findings and recommendations.
- Experience providing advice and recommendations orally and in writing to senior management and executives.
- Experience establishing and maintaining key relationships with key internal and external parties.
- Experience developing formal investigation-related plans (e.g., terms of reference, investigation plans, budgets, and workplans).
- Successful completion of an Enhanced Security Screening will be required.

Preferred Qualifications

- Graduate degree (e.g., social sciences, public policy, political science, criminology, sociology or related discipline).
- Experience working within a systemic mandate.
- Experience serving as the lead or primary investigator in a complex investigation.
- Experience investigating or researching policing, social justice or human rights issues, or working for an organization whose mandate includes these areas.
- Project management or major case management experience.
- Experience or training in trauma-informed and culturally safe practices.
- Experience incorporating accessibility considerations into all stages of an investigation.
- Experience facilitating broader engagement activities (e.g., organizing and leading expert panels, roundtable discussions, consultations, public events, and/or community meetings).

Preference may also be given to:

- Applicants who self-identify as First Nations, Métis, Inuit and/or Indigenous, Black or racialized, women, 2SLGBTQ+, people with diverse gender identities or expressions, and/or people with disabilities.

KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS AND ABILITIES

- Demonstrated expertise in the principles of administrative fairness and natural justice.
- Extensive knowledge of the Police Act and related regulations, policies and practices.
- Ability to manage a team, including conducting performance assessments, coaching, team building, and mentoring staff.

- Ability to develop, implement and monitor policies, standards and procedures.
- Ability to effectively communicate both verbally and in writing.
- Demonstrated ability to reference and interpret complex legislation, regulations, policies and practices to determine an appropriate course of action.
- Ability to analyze and solve problems and to lead multiple projects.
- Demonstrated ability to exercise the utmost discretion with highly sensitive and confidential issues.

INDIGENOUS RELATIONS BEHAVIOURAL COMPETENCIES

- Cultural Agility is the ability to work respectfully, knowledgeably and effectively with Indigenous people. It is noticing and readily adapting to cultural uniqueness in order to create a sense of safety for all. It is openness to unfamiliar experiences, transforming feelings of nervousness or anxiety into curiosity and appreciation. It is examining one's own culture and worldview, and the culture of the BC Public Service, and to notice their commonalities, and distinctions with Indigenous cultures, and worldviews. It is recognition of the ways that personal and professional values may conflict or align with those of Indigenous people. It is the capacity to relate to or allow for differing cultural perspectives and being willing to experience a personal shift in perspective.
- Sustained learning and development means continually increasing your ability to build and maintain respectful and effective relationships with Indigenous peoples. Central to this competency is appreciating that there are many other cultural understandings of knowledge and ways of working that have legitimacy and deserve respect—and therefore require our continual learning and development, including direct exposure to cultural and community ways. It includes an eagerness to continually reflect upon and assess your own level of cultural agility and competence, self-awareness and expertise. It means being willing to learn in new and different ways and appreciating how diverse ways of thinking and acting can ensure the success of the BC Public Service in supporting Indigenous self-determination.
